Tutoring Experience

For 16 years, I've dedicated my career to tutoring students in Psychology, working across IB, A-Level, and IGCSE curricula. My journey began shortly after earning my Master's degree when I recognised my passion for helping students succeed in psychology. Over the years, I've developed expertise in supporting students with diverse academic needs, from exam prep to project guidance.

My experience includes teaching students from varied backgrounds, allowing me to adapt to individual learning requirements. I've had the privilege of seeing many students achieve top scores in their exams and pursue careers in psychology and related fields. I also provide assistance with Extended Essays, helping students refine their research and analytical skills.

In addition to curriculum-based tutoring, I guide students in developing critical thinking and applying psychological concepts to real-world scenarios. Many of my students commend me for my ability to make even the most challenging theories approachable, ensuring long-term academic success.
